Founded in 2000 by Jean-Christophe Pellerin, who recently joined forces with his two sons, this 6-hectare estate has been managed biodynamically (Demeter certified) since 2009. The natural vinification produces wines which are a real treat and reflect their terroir without artifice.

VAL FRISON, Côte des Bar

Small vineyard of 3 ha in the Aube, worked organically. Vinification by grape variety and by year (although the vintage is not claimed), according to the Burgundian method in barrels, without chaptalisation, yeasting or dosage after disgorging.

Resolutely "organic", Laurent Fell, a "half-punk" "half-pekno" winegrower (according to his own words) produces, on the slopes of the Cévennes ardéchoises, some very pretty wines with Occitan names. His Gamay reveals a fine balance between tension and remarkable Saint Joseph, not forgetting some lovely wines in the "Collines rhodaniennes" appellation. The high quality of the harvest allows for a gentle vinification, the very fine juices not suffering at all from a year spent in barrels and giving wines with a powerful, straight and firm body, which age admirably.

LEAH ANGLES

The last years, Philippe Gard of the renowned Coume del Mas estate had given carte blanche to his young oenologist Léah Anglès (now working on her own) to produce a new "natural" cuvée: vinified from the whole harvest using 100% Grenache Noir from the magnificent terroirs of Collioure and Banyuls, Divay is a dense, sunny wine, but with an astonishing freshness. Decanting recommended.

CHÂTEAU LESTIGNAC

Mathias & Camille Marquet

By dint of hard work and questioning, Mathias and Camille Marquet show the mastery of the "old" that they are far from being already. Wines with a high emotional content: whites with a full texture and a whole range of reds, some with a very fine Loire finesse (La Plantureuse, for example), others (such as Racigas) more powerful, tannic and betraying their Bergerac terroir. Do not forget the "specialities" (sweet "sous voile" wines). Since 2017 (due to climatic conditions), a range of "vins de négoce" (out of organic grapes purchased from other friendly growers and vinified by Mathias) has been added under the Hors les murs label.

CHÂTEAU BAROUILLET, Pomport

Family vineyard located in Pomport in the Dordogne in the middle of the Monbazillac appellation on 45 ha spread over five plots. Since 2009, Vincent has been gradually converting the vineyard to organic, producing wines without artifice, on the fruit, and embodying the renewal of the sector. In the continuity of the work in the vineyard, indigenous yeasts are used, inputs are limited to the maximum and irreproachable hygiene is respected in the winery.

STEPHAN ELZIERE, Molompize

Stéphan Elzière is based in the Cantal region of France and his vines (barely 3 hectares) are for a small part (Cuvée Palhas) and in the Puy de Dôme region, where the estate is worked without chemicals. In 2008, he took over the estate from Philippe Grenier, a winegrower who was already working with respect for nature. He inherited a healthy vine and original and varied grape varieties for the region: Gamay, Petite Syrah, Pinot Noir, Chardonnay, Chardonnay Musqué, Côt, Abouriou and... Gewürztraminer!

LE RAISIN A PLUME, Jacques Février

6 hectares, 6 grape varieties (melon de bourgogne, sauvignon, pinot gris, gamay, abouriou and cabernet franc) on the slopes of Ancenis, between Angers and Nantes) for Jacques Février and his partner Julie, passionate "nature" winemakers. We owe them a beautiful "Muscadet" (although the appellation is not applied for) and a gourmet and fruity Gamay.

DOMAINE DE BELLEVUE J. Bretaudeau

Today at the head of a dozen hectares, Jérôme Bretaudeau is one of the driving forces of an appellation in full revival and offers both Muscadets typical of their terroirs and exceptional wines. Among the latter, "Gaïa", aged in ovoid tanks, reveals itself superbly after a few years of ageing. All the vintages are certified organic.

VINILIBRE, Christophe Bosque

Christophe Bosque combines the activities of "négoce" with those of a winegrower on his 2 hectares of Muscadet vines. Above all, he is a passionate person, free to select, for his trade, the cuvées of already known winemakers or young talents to be discovered. Living soils, cultivation without synthetic molecules, respectful oenology with little or no inputs are absolute imperatives in his quest for pure vibrations and sensations.

REAU, Ste Radegonde Nicolas Reau produces "Rabelaisian and peppery bottles out of his pampered vines" (Tuz), located in the area of Thouars on some 7 ha - including the 2.2 ha of the superb Clos des Treilles. We really wanted to import the wines of this former rugby player and jazz pianist, who converted to wine-growing in his thirties and became a highly representative, even emblematic, figure of natural wine. High-flying vintages of chenin and cabernet franc.

SYLVAIN MARTINEZ Le Thoureil

Sylvain Martinez, who previously worked for Olivier Cousin, started in 2006 with a first hectare and then acquired an additional 1.5 hectares in 2013. He settled permanently in Le Thoureil in 2016, in the Caves de l'Abbaye, a semi-troglodyte cellar. After various experiences, notably in large Bordeaux structures, he met and worked with winemakers such as Xavier Cailleau, René Mosse, Mark Angeli and of course Olivier Cousin, which caused a clear evolution in his way to look at the vine and the wine. The farmer's side takes over, the work in organic is imposed with the will to make natural wines. Sylvain Martinez represents a significant addition to our already rich list of Loire winemakers.

CYRILLE SEVIN, Mont près Chambord

Cyrille, a discreet yet honest winegrower, has been established since 2007 with 10 hectares in the heart of the Cheverny (whose wines are always made from blends) and Cour-Cheverny appellations. He produces a wide range of wines: sweet and dry whites, reds, rosés, still and sparkling wines. He takes great care of his land, limits inputs, and harvests by hand. And in the cellar only indigenous yeasts are used and great care is taken during vinification and maturing. We offer a first selection of the wines of this former maths teacher, who succeeds in the (high-degree) equation between freshness and complexity, with whites of great finesse, reds that are spicy, but supple and not very tannic.

LES GAUCHERS, Cédric Fleury

A very young estate, since Cédric Fleury's first vintage was 2017. After a career in NGOs devoted to humanitarian development, he was introduced to working in the vines at Renaud Guettier (La Grapperie) and then at Emile Hérédia (Domaine de Montrieux). 2.6 hectares of small plots on two historic hillsides in the Vendômois region are planted with pineau d'aunis, a nice grape variety that produces beautifully aromatic, supple and light-coloured wines, cabernet franc, pinot and, for the whites, chenin. Organic farming (certified) and non-interventionist vinification, carried out in a troglodyte cellar in Thoré la Rochette, in stainless steel vats for L'Appel du Large, and 13 months in barrels for Les Gueules Pressées.

CINOUE CAMPI Ouattro Castelli

Like other wines that have fallen victim to their success, produced in industrial quantities and become rather anonymous products, Lambrusco deserved to be rehabilitated. The movement of "natural" wines and a winemaker such as Vanni Nizzoli take care of it for us. At the head of his 4 hectares of old vines grown organically near Reggio in Emilia, he produces half a dozen different vintages in an artisanal way, using indigenous yeasts and without adding sulfites. His entry-level Cinque Campi rosso frizzante makes you want to know the rest of his range.

PIEMONT

TERE RÜSE, Mombaruzzo

Piedmont wines proposed at last! But, as always, off the beaten track, we have chosen a small estate to discover: 4 hectares in the heart of Monferrato (with a highly-rated 'agro-turismo'), mostly red clay soils on which the Barbera, Freisa, Pinot Noir, Riesling and Aleatico grape varieties are planted. Biodynamic since 2019, the estate vinifies using indigenous yeasts and non-invasive methods in amphora or large barrels, without fining or fermentation. We are fortunate to be able to offer relatively old vintages and, sometimes, several vintages of the same wine, giving rise to exciting vertical tastings.

ALESSANDRO VIOLA, Alcamo

In the extreme north-east of Sicily, the renowned oenologist Alessandro Viola vinifies the Grillo grape variety (formerly used for Marsala) in white and Nerello Mascalese in red. Wines without added sulphites and for the "top of the range" vinified in chestnut barrels. Remarkable orange wine and spumante "blanc de blancs" without any dosage.

Cantina FUNARO, Santa Ninfa

These three native varietal wines (including the famous Zibibbo - or Muscat of Alexandria - here in maceration) are the fruit of the collaboration between the Funaro family, which owns a large estate planted with vines and olive trees, and the talented Alessandro Viola (see above). The wines are, of course, organic, unfiltered, on indigenous yeasts and are aged in tanks.

VINI FELICI - CASA NIKA, Pantelleria

New young winemaker and new confidential (but accessible) wines. Felix Schäfer, born in Athens to archaeologists, studied viticulture and quickly fell into the natural wine world. Promoter and winemaker of the Berlin (!) "Britzer Weinkultur", he divides the rest of his time between two wine-producing hot spots, the German Moselle and the volcanic island of Pantelleria, off the coast of Sicily and Tunisia, where he produces, here a Zibibbo, there a Riesling, two very fine wines, totally handcrafted, which were first reserved for family and friends, before landing on the table of some of the most stylish restaurants such as "Noma" in Copenhagen.

BADE

ENDERLE & MOLL, Münchweier

Just two guys, a tiny cellar, a vertical press, a few hectares of old vines and a lot of "buzz". Even the venerable Jancis Robinson calls them "cult winemakers". Many think they make the best pinot noir in Germany. What is certain is that they work differently from practically all the winegrowers of Baden and the Palatinate, the large cooperatives, of course, but also from the reputable estates that swear by maturity, alcohol level and new wood. Their vineyards are among the oldest in the region. They are cultivated organically and biodynamically. All the work is manual. They use one to five year old barrels from Domaine Dujac in Burgundy. Available in numerous vintages, their wines are not lacking in power, but the energy they give off does not hide a satiny texture and a lot of brilliance. They do not copy Burgundy in any way, but share with it an ideal of finesse in the expression of the terroir. Astonishing rosé and white wines.

Michael Völker & Melanie Drese

On their 3 ha in the Würzburg region, these young winegrowers make fine wines, light in alcohol, not sulphited, unfiltered or fined, with great drinkability. Superb pinot noir, Sylvaner as well as macerated whites, but their emblematic cuvées are the "Fledermaus" (red and white), paying tribute to the species of grey bat that Michael and Melanie have undertaken to protect (these bats colonize the hovel surrounded by their "schwarzriesling" vines and, in exchange for their precious guano, a fund dedicated to their protection receives a few "cents" per bottle sold.

Andi MANN, Eckelsheim

After studying economics, Andi went to Geisenheim (University of viticulture and oenology) before taking over the family estate which dates back to 1699. Of the eleven hectares, five are reserved for the production of natural wines. The wide variety of soils (including volcanic porphyry), the maintenance of biodiversity, the "clean" viticulture, the manual harvest, and the long and fundamentally non-interventionist vinification process all contribute to the authenticity and energy of the wines, making this estate one of the most important contributors to the revival of German wines, especially those from the Rheinhessen region.

HESSE RHENANE

BERGKLOSTER, Jason Groebe, Westhofen

Faisant lui aussi partie de la "bande de Geisenheim", Jason a bénéficié de l'ntelligence et de la compréhension de ses parents qui l'ont laissé faire évoluer le domaine familial (depuis cinq générations) en un des "laboratoires"(au sens de lieu de recherche et d'innovation) emblématiques de la nouvelle école du vin allemande. Sur 8 hectares et des sols majoritairement de calcaire et marnes argileuses, Jason travaille avec passion une bonne dizaine de cépages, se remet en question continuellement pour vinifier des cuvées alliant complexité et fruité

Between the Rhine and the Moselle, the Nahe has been an official wine region in its own right since 1971. The "natural" wine did not really exist there until the advent of Christine Pieroth, who took over in 2018 after studies and internships abroad a family estate already listed in 1780. Her lively, straightforward, mineral and elegant wines are enthusiastically received and in high demand. Like Jason Groebe, for example, she favors respect for nature and puts herself at the service, year after year, of the harvest that her work and especially the weather offer her. She has a real talent for reading and interpreting the particularities of the vintage, magnifying it while preserving it.

With his unmistakable hat screwed on his head, his funny labels, his "Landschwein" vintages (a play on the word "Landswein"), etc. . Lukas Krauss could be considered a joker in his milieu. His wines are nevertheless to be taken very seriously and are the fruit of a beautiful work allowing to exploit at best terroirs which have nothing exceptional. Hats off to Lukas!

Weingut BRAND GbR, Bockenheim

The two young brothers Daniel and Jonas Brand have taken over the family estate in the Palatinate region (Pfalz), located on the airy heights around Bockenheim. Adept at organic farming and above all at vinification without added sulphites, the Brand Brothers produce very clear and light wines. Remarkable sparkling "pet nat", but all the cuvées have an irresistible charm.
